THE LAST SUPPER MASTERPIECE OF WILLIAM LEAVITT

Artist Who Wed and Was Divorced from Ruth Bryan Exhibiting Canvas.

Here Under Auspices of the Woman's Club.

IT WAS PAINTED IN PARIS

William Homer Leavitt, the noted American artist, former husband of Ruth Bryan Leavitt and son-in-law of William Jennings Bryan, is in Paducah to exhibit his masterpiece, "The Last Supper," which will go on exhibition at the Three Links building at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Leavitt arrived yesterday. His appearance is under the auspices of the Woman's club and his famous painting arrived from Van Wert, O., where it was last shown, this morning. It required all morning and part of this afternoon to hang the picture and arrange the draperies. The painting is 15 feet high and 22 1/2 feet long. It has been seen by 235,000 people, by actual count, during its 17 months of exhibition in France, England, Ireland and the United States.

Mr. Leavitt is an American, but likes Paris and the French people. Paris is where the masterpiece was painted, requiring two years' work. He missed only one day. The picture is valued at $100,000 and Paducahans are indebted to the Woman's club for securing it. To fully appreciate the picture one has to study it. It is the only painting in existence showing Christ standing and is the largest painting since Muncie's "Christ Before Pilate." A noticeable feature of the picture is that the room is lighted only by the radiance from the Christ, Himself.

The scene is laid in that upper chamber in Jerusalem, where the Savior, realizing that His last hours are at hand, has brought His twelve disciples together for their last passover supper. The table, at which they are seated, is opened at the front, so the servants may pass in and out, according to the ancient Roman custom. Christ has risen from His seat at the center of the opposite side. Opposite Him is the seat of honor, from which Judas has just risen. Judas, whom Christ has just rebuked, is seen standing at the rear of the room, at the parting of the curtain. Every eye, except that of Andrew, whose head is bowed in grief, is turned upon the Master. Mr. Leavitt, in depicting the various expressions characteristic of the disciples, has shown himself to be an artist of rare talent. Christ alone is composed and is not pictured as a man bowed with grief, but having a beautiful expression on His countenance.

John, who sits at the Master's left, is looking up with loving fear, and Peter's face, the strongest in the group, shows almost wrathful indignation. Matthew, the publican, shows a refined, intellectual face. All the disciples are clothed in keeping with the custom, in white, except John and James, the "sons of thunder," one of whom wears a red shawl covering and the other a dull red undergarment, showing above his robe. The settings and surroundings are held strictly to the old Roman customs of the time of Christ. Mr. Leavitt having visited Jerusalem prior to painting his picture, and studied the customs of that quaint city.

Another notable feature is that the artist has not tried to picture the face of Judas, the betrayer, as repulsive or malicious, as is shown in other pictures. A striking feature of the painting is the simplicity imbedded in it. The characters are all taken from Jews from the streets of Palestine, where the artist spent some time sketching. The picture, no doubt, ranks among the greatest paintings of this "last supper, of the feast of the passover."

The largest number viewing it in one day was at Belfast, Ireland, and the second largest number at Gray Chapel, Delaware, during the latter part of May.

In an interview with a reporter for The Evening Sun today Mr. Leavitt paid a high compliment to the women of Paducah. The people in general, he said, are sociable and he likes this. He considers Paducah clean and attractive and likes the buildings.

Mr. Leavitt's Career.
Mr. Leavitt has the distinction of being the first American painter to be elected an officer in the School of Fine Arts, Paris, France.

Mr. Leavitt was born in Boston, Mass., and took up drawing at the

Tommy Farrin Indicted For Pool Road Murder by McCracken Co. Grand Jury—Sam Langford Case

Noted Colored Pugilist, Who Rode in Pullman Through Paducah—Bawdy House Contempt Case.

Tommy Farrin, charged with the murder of the red headed youth on the Pool road last spring, was indicted today by the grand jury on the charge of willful murder. No other indictments as a result of the investigation were returned, but it is said that others may before the grand jury concludes its investigations. According to the minutes returned with the indictment there was no new evidence before the jurors.

Craig McGee Set Free.
Both indictments against Craig McGee, charging him with horse stealing and obtaining money by false pretenses, were dismissed this morning. It was evident that McGee is not right mentally, and he escaped punishment upon evidence introduced to show his insanity. He was accused of stealing the horse of his uncle, George McGee, who resides near Wickliffe, and coming to Paducah, where he disposed of the horse to Fletcher Terrell for $40.

George McGee testified that his nephew was at his home to spend the summer and that he gave him permission to use the horse and drive it anywhere. After this testimony Circuit Judge Reed instructed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty, on the charge of horse stealing. On the charge of selling the horse, evidence was introduced to show that there was insanity in the family, and also that the defendant was struck upon the head in St. Louis, and since the blow his mind has not been normal. Local physicians corroborated the testimony as to his present mental condition. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity. Relatives of McGee will take him to St. Louis, where an operation will be performed in an effort to restore his mind.

Annie Cox in Bad.
A rule was issued against Annie Cox to appear at the next term of circuit court and show reasons why she should not be punished for keeping and maintaining a bawdy house on Kentucky avenue. When Judge Reed first assumed his office as circuit judge he cleared away all of the bawdy houses on Kentucky avenue. It is alleged that Annie Cox has conducted a house since that order. Her bond was fixed at $200.

Other Matters.
Al Redmon was indicted this morning on the charge of malicious shooting. The charge was reduced to shooting in sudden heat and passion and upon a plea of guilty, was fined $50.

Margery Hines, colored, alias "Black Margery" was indicted this morning on the charge of murder. She stabbed Rosa Stevenson. The charge of deserting her infant child, was dismissed against Mrs. Oda Thomas. The grand jury failed to find an indictment.

Gertie Gaines, colored, was acquitted on the charge of malicious cutting. Her plea was self defense. The trial of Fred Hobbs, colored, charged with malicious shooting, was continued until the January term. The trial of Sam Hobbs, charged with the same offense was also continued.

The case against M. Wynn, chases. He engaged in conversation with the proprietor, residing a few detective cases where he had figured in running down criminals.

Having gained the confidence of the drugist, Corter touched him for $10. The drugist agreed to endorse a check on the Commercial bank, Louisville, where Corter claimed to have funds. The check was cashed and Corter skipped out of Paducah.

He claimed to be working out of Chicago. Word was received last night from the Commercial bank, of Louisville, that Corter had no funds there and they did not know him. The Pinkerton agency at St. Louis, has been notified and his arrest is expected in a few days.

Corter was short in build, heavy set and wore a light checked suit of clothes. He had black hair and was smooth shaven.

RICH SMUGGLER.
New York, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Ada Adriance, wife of Reynolds Adriance, of Paukeopale, N. Y., was fined $5,000 for smuggling today, by Federal Judge Hand. She had pleaded guilty to the charge. "The richer the people are, the more inclined they seem, to be, to defraud the government, especially in the matter of customs duties," said Judge Hand in imposing the fine.

charged with petit larceny, was transferred to county court. Owing to the absence of witnesses the trial of Eugene Bright, alias Jim Cash, charged with forgery, was continued until January. Bright is accused of obtaining clothing by presenting a bad check, that he forged. Shelton Hale, colored, charged with malicious cutting, was fined $50.

The appeal from police court of J. M. Egan was submitted to the court. This afternoon the trial of Jim Jones, alias Jim Drake and his sister, Jennie Lynn, charged with the murder of John Gibson, was taken up. It is the first murder trial taken up at this term of court, and also the first afternoon session.

Commonwealth's Attorney John G. Lovett and County Attorney Sanders Clay will ask a new trial, and in case it is refused an appeal probably will be taken.

Sam Langford Case.
The indictment against the Illinois Central railroad for an alleged violation of the separate coach law by permitting Sam Langford, a colored pugilist, to ride in a Pullman sleeper through McCracken county, was dismissed yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge William Reed. The alleged offense occurred last year, and some county officials were returning from Louisville in the sleeper, they found that the celebrated colored pugilist was in the same car with them. In January, 1909, an indictment against the Pullman company was returned, but this was dismissed, and the indictment against the Illinois Central railroad returned. The case was submitted to Judge Reed with an agreed statement of facts. Langford was on an interstate trip, and as he was in the sleeping car it was held that the separate coach law did not apply.

Dr. Sullivan's Condition
The Rev. G. T. Sullivan, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, is resting easy today. Dr. Sullivan is ill of gastritis, and is resting somewhat easier today than last night, but is still quite sick. However, his physician says that the condition of Dr. Sullivan is not alarming.

INDIAN FRAUDS
Muskegon, Okla., Oct. 7.—Secretary Ballinger will investigate, personally, land deals with the Indians, on a five day tour of the state, beginning Monday. Indian Inspector Wright was advised today that Ballinger will examine all contracts held by attorneys for the sale of Indian lands.

Monday at midnight the Republican chiefs, accompanied by numerous partisans, went to the barracks of the Sixteenth regiment of infantry. The doors were immediately thrown open to the populace, and arms were distributed to thousands. The barracks of the first regiment of artillery were next visited and guns dragged forth. The revolutionists marched to the highest point in Lisbon, a fine strategic position, where artillery was mounted, threatening the town.

The governmental troops immediately took up a position in the center of the town about two miles distant from the revolutionists. Four heavy guns and Maxim guns were placed to oppose the revolutionists. Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamastor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the seamen's barracks, the men of which having joined the revolt, was surrounded by a force of municipal guards.

The cannonading commenced and the whole town trembled to its foundations. A regiment of municipal cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgents' encampment, but were met with a terrific fire from the artillery. This regiment was almost completely annihilated, only three men escaping. The revolutionists showed extraordinary courage and sustained an attack on all sides by superior forces for two days and nights. On Tuesday the Adamastor shelled the Necessidades palace and King Manuel and the queen mother, Amelie, were forced to escape to Cascaes, from which place they went to Mafra.

The same night the Adamastor and Rafael shelled the center of the town, doing much execution to the monarchist forces and finally the latter, tired of the siege, surrendered.

PORTUGAL STORY REACHING LIGHT SPITE OF CENSOR

Fighting in Lisbon Between Revolutionists and Royalists Monday and Tuesday.

Flight of Royal Family From the Capitol.

ATTITUDE OF THE NATIONS

Gibraltar, Oct. 7.—King Manuel here today declared he will remain in Gibraltar until the situation in Portugal takes a more definite shape. Despite the loss of his throne, he appeared cheerful. The royal family returned to the yacht Amelie, after a visit to the governor, The U. S. warship Des Moines, and British warships Minerva and Du Castle fired the royal salute in his honor. These vessels have been ordered to Oporto.

BEGIN WAR ON CHURCH.
Berlin, Oct. 7.—A dispatch from Lisbon says the new republic has already begun war against the church of Portugal. Monasteries and convents have been suppressed and monks and nuns have orders to leave the country in 24 hours. Some priests have abandoned their clerical garb while in public.

@aby Wants Her Manuel.
Vienna, Oct. 7.—The arms of Gaby Deslys are open for Manuel, the uncrowned king of Portugal. "I had an appointment with the uncrowned king in Paris October 16, and I certainly hope to see him on that day," said the uncrowned queen today. "I shall not turn against my King in his misfortune; but shall be kinder than ever."

Story of the Fight.
Lisbon, Oct. 7.—While the city of Lisbon is in the hands of the revolutionists and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as provisional president and other prominent Republicans constituting the ministry, there are still many thousands in and around the capital who are loyal to the monarchy. The monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops and troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. Thus far these have refused to ally themselves with the revolutionists, and the provisional government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces, and therefore it is not known whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless, the Republicans are proceeding as though the transformation of the monarchy into a republic was an accomplished fact, to stand for all time.

For months past preparations have been going on for the overthrow of the king, and it had been finally arranged to raise the cry of revolution on Wednesday. It so happened that the king was about to take up his residence at Cascaes, and the warships were ordered to proceed there.

Fight Is Begun.
The navy, which is the chief support of the revolutionists, thereupon decided to act immediately, otherwise that defense arm of the country would be able to offer no assistance in carrying out the plan.

Monday at midnight the Republican chiefs, accompanied by numerous partisans, went to the barracks of the Sixteenth regiment of infantry. The doors were immediately thrown open to the populace, and arms were distributed to thousands. The barracks of the first regiment of artillery were next visited and guns dragged forth. The revolutionists marched to the highest point in Lisbon, a fine strategic position, where artillery was mounted, threatening the town.

The governmental troops immediately took up a position in the center of the town about two miles distant from the revolutionists.

Ships Shell Town.
Four heavy guns and Maxim guns were placed to oppose the revolutionists. Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamastor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the seamen's barracks, the men of which having joined the revolt, was surrounded by a force of municipal guards.

The cannonading commenced and the whole town trembled to its foundations. A regiment of municipal cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgents' encampment, but were met with a terrific fire from the artillery. This regiment was almost completely annihilated, only three men escaping. The revolutionists showed extraordinary courage and sustained an attack on all sides by superior forces for two days and nights. On Tuesday the Adamastor shelled the Necessidades palace and King Manuel and the queen mother, Amelie, were forced to escape to Cascaes, from which place they went to Mafra.

Prominent Farmer Warned by Night Riders to Join Barley Pool If He Values His Life and His Property

Letter Postmarked Louisville, Is Received By Him—Wealthy Citizen Commits Suicide.

Elizabethtown, Ky., Oct. 7. (Special.)—Evan Sitzer, a prominent farmer and large tobacco grower, was warned by night riders as follows: "Fair warning. Pool your tobacco if you value your life or property."

The letter was postmarked Louisville. The republic was proclaimed in the afternoon and the Republican flag hoisted on the public edifices.

The provisional government has issued a communication to the foreign powers notifying them of the proclamation of the Portuguese republic. No serious obstructions are expected to be offered by the provinces to the new regime.

The republic has already appointed civil governors for the different provinces. The Brazilian president-elect, Marshal Hermes Fonseca, passed through the streets with the provisional president. Both were enthusiastically greeted by the people.

Order has been restored throughout the greater part of the city. Patrols are guarding the thoroughfares. The announcement was made last night that King Manuel, the queen mother, Amelie, and the duke of Oporto are aboard the royal yacht Amelie. The government has taken measures to protect them. It is further stated that the queen mother would proceed to Italy.

English Cruiser Arrives.
The English cruiser Minerva arrived here to reinforce the cruiser New Castle, which reached the port while the fighting was still in progress. After giving notification of the establishment of a new government at Lisbon the British minister, Sir Francis B. Villiers, requested an audience of Foreign Minister Machado.

Report Royalists Rally.
Paris, Oct. 7.—The Portuguese legation here is under the impression that loyal troops from the fortress at Elvas, near the boundary east of Lisbon, and those garrisoned at Oporto, in the northwest of Portugal, are marching on Lisbon to engage the revolutionists. Their point of concentration would be Santarem, on the Tagus river, where the revolutionists have cut the railroad line. Sebastiao Lima, one of the chiefs of the Portuguese Republican party, who is here, received a dispatch from Lisbon, signed by Senor Costa, as minister of justice, assuring him that the Republicans had won a complete victory and gained the support of the whole country.

In an effort to escape a street car and a wagon, which were approaching him on Broadway, August Denker ran his automobile on the sidewalk in front of Culley's store this afternoon. Forrest Lofton, of Dyersburg, Tenn., and J. E. Clark, of this county, pedestrians, were injured, but not seriously.

GOV. BOB TAYLOR IS NOMINATED BY PATTERSONIANS

Will Lead Patterson Democrats Against Hooper at November Election.

Minority Report, Favoring Statewide Rejected.

THE NASHVILLE CONVENTION.

Nashville, Oct. 7.—As predicted, Bob Taylor was nominated for governor at the Patterson Democratic state convention, which defeated a minority report favoring the enforcement of prohibition laws, and declared it not a proper subject for party action.

J. W. Thomas was nominated for railroad commissioner. The platform dodged the prohibition issue thus:

"The Democratic party has at all times been the consistent friend of temperance reform in Tennessee and other southern states. All progressive legislation on the subject has been enacted by the Democratic party, but it is an economic and moral question.

"It cannot rightfully, and should not, as a matter of fact, be made the football of political expediency or allowed to become a party question. There is no place in theory, as there is none in practice, for a division along party lines on this question. Men in all parties differ widely as to the means to be adopted and the course to be pursued in advancing this cause. It is a question which must and should be settled by the members of the legislature and by the voters of Tennessee in their selection and election.

We therefore declare that the temperance question should not be an issue in a gubernatorial campaign. The great controlling issue in the campaign is whether Tennessee shall be turned over to a boss-ruling Republican machine, in a bargain by which the public offices of this state are sought to be treated as merchandise and party bosses. The repudiation of this humiliating attempt to barter away the honor of the state is the first duty of every patriotic Tennessean.

"We favor and demand the enforcement of all laws that now are or may hereafter be placed upon the statute books of Tennessee on all questions."

The minority plank, which was rejected, said:

"Therefore, as the only means for final and decisive settlement of the disturbing question of the prohibition of the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors in Tennessee, we favor a submission by the legislature at the earliest practical date, to a vote of the qualified voters of the state, the questions whether or not the state constitution shall be amended so as to provide for:

"Constitutional statewide prohibition of the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, or

"Second—County option, or

"Third—City option in cities of more than 15,000 population.

"And in the meantime the laws now on the statute books prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors in Tennessee shall be enforced in the letter and spirit of their enactment; provided, if the general assembly should in the meantime by enactments, make such changes therein as would re-establish the status quo existing prior to the enactment by the Fifty-sixth general assembly of what are known as the 'statewide bill' and the 'manufacturers' bill,' in that event that executive approval is hereby favored."

PADUCAH DELEGATE IS IN LINE FOR HONOR

John C. Reavis, delegate from the Paducah Carpenters' union, No. 559, returned today from Des Moines, where for three weeks he has been attending the national meeting. Mr. Reavis was particularly fortunate in the distribution of the honors, and made a distinct hit with the members. He was a member of the committee on organization, one of the most important committees, and is in line for the membership on the general executive board of the third district. Three nominees have already withdrawn and thrown their strength to Mr. Reavis, and he has an excellent opportunity of election.

"WEIGHED IN THE BALANCE"

The Ten Commandments

Dr. Torrey Delivers Great Sermon Before Second Largest Crowd of the Revival— "The Holy City" Tonight.

The second largest audience of the Torrey meeting assembled at the auditorium, Tenth street and Broadway, last night to hear Dr. Torrey's sermon on the Ten Commandments. The crowd was only slightly smaller than the one Sunday night.

Mr. McEwan sang as beautifully as ever, and tonight will sing "The Holy City."

Dr. Torrey took for his text last night the interpretation of the handwriting on the wall: "Weighed in the balances and found wanting."

He opened his discourse with a wonderful description of Belshazzar's feast in all its oriental splendor and its dramatic attending circumstances and denouement.

He included among his topics the "first and great commandment" and the Golden Rule, and touching upon the latter he shattered an illusion to which many people outside the church have been clinging; for he said when a man declares he has no use for religion, that the "golden rule is good enough for him," he asks that man if he is living up to the golden rule, and invariably he finds the man is not.

"Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you," he said.

"Do ye even so to them."

said Dr. Torrey is not a negative, prohibitory command, but a positive one. It does not command that you refrain from doing to others that which would be unpleasant if done to you; directly commands you to do something for others.

"Do you sell to others as you would that others would sell to you," he asked, "Or do you try to get the highest price for the poorest goods?"

"Do you buy from others as you would that others should buy from you? Or do you go around hunting for bargains?"

To night Dr. Torrey will preach on "Something Absolutely Sure." His sermon last night was:

"Any one who loves the drama should read the Bible, for the Bible is the most dramatic book that was ever written. There is nothing to compare with it in Ecce Homo or Sophocles or Euripides among the ancients, or in Shakespeare among the moderns, in striking situations, in graphic delineation, and in startling denouement."

"One of the most intensely interesting and at the same time suggestive scenes in the Bible is that described in Daniel v.—Belshazzar's feast. Belshazzar was not the supreme king of Babylon. Nabonidus, his father, was king, and had associated him with himself on the throne; Belshazzar was second ruler in the kingdom. The critics used to tell us there never was such a king as Belshazzar; but Sir William Rawlinson dug up a tablet from Nabonidus himself, on which he speaks of his son Belshazzar; and again the critics as so often before, were brought to grief by the discoveries of modern archaeology."

"But now Belshazzar was in supreme command in the city. His father Nabonidus had been shut out side the city walls by the forces of Cyrus. Puffed up by the pride of his newly-gotten power, Belshazzar makes a great banquet. The palace is a blaze of light. The long tables are set for more than a thousand guests. They are brilliant and dazzling with plates and cups and tankards of silver and gold, many-jewelled, reflecting back the light from countless candelabra. Reclining at the tables are the guests, with fingers and arms ringed and jewelled. The air is heavy with perfume and tremulous with the music of harp and dulcimer and sackbut. Between the tables the oriental women weave through the contortions and distortions of the Asiatic dance. Back and forth across the tables fly jest and repartee.

A New Conceit.

"In the midst of this hilarity a strange and daring conceit enters the mind of the royal entertainer. Belshazzar whispers to his chief steward a secret command. The guests are all agog with curiosity to know what the mysterious mandate may be. Their curiosity is soon gratified; for the chief steward, followed by a host of retainers, comes in bearing in their arms the cups of gold and silver which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from the temple of Jehovah after the sack of the city of Jerusalem. Belshazzar commands that the cups be filled with Babylonian wine, and passed from lip to lip while he and his guests sing the praises of the gods of gold and silver, of brass, of iron, of wood and of stone."

"The hilarity becomes more boisterous. Louder and louder through the instruments, faster and faster spin the feet of the dancers, swifter and swifter fly jest and repartee. Suddenly a hush like death falls upon the banquet hall. One of the revellers, lifting his eyes to the wall, sees the fingers of a man's hand, writing. As he gazes in wonder he becomes the center of observation, and all eyes turn in the same direction. Now the king turns and looks also. There, writing in characters of fire are the mysterious fingers of an armless hand. Terror freezes Belshazzar to the very soul. In the graphic language of the prophet Daniel, "the king's countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against another." In a few moments Belshazzar pulls himself together, and hoarsely cries, "Bring hither the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers."

"In comes the magic of Babylon, splendidly apparelled, with proud and stately tread. Expectation rises high in their hearts. They think that by cunning arts they can deceive the king, and gain new emoluments; but only for a moment. The look of confidence fades from their faces. The writing is beyond their art."

"Again terror lays hold on Belshazzar. Again his countenance was changed in him. The queen-mother hears the confusion. She walks in with stately tread, and tries to assure her royal son. "O king, live for ever; let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed; there is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods." And she proceeds to sing the praises of Daniel. "Let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation." Daniel is summoned. Belshazzar turns to him, and says, "O Daniel, I have heard of thee, that the spirit of the gods is in thee, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee. And I have heard of thee, that thou canst make interpretations, and dissolve doubts; now if thou canst read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with scarlet, and have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom."

Everyone Weighed.

"Tekel; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting." "In whose balances was Belshazzar weighed? The balance of God. Not in the balances of his own estimation of himself; he would never have been found wanting there. Not in the balances of public opinion; the men of Babylon would have said, 'Belshazzar is the greatest of our statesmen, and the coming man.' Not in the balances of human philosophy. In the balances of God. "Every man and woman here tonight is to be weighed in the same balances, the balances of God. How much do you suppose that you weigh in your own opinion of yourself? That is of no consequence, for many a man who thinks most of himself is of least account in the mind of God. I do not ask how much you weigh in the balances of public opinion. You may be a leading citizen and a chief magistrate, whom all delight to honor; but oftentimes that which is highly esteemed is abomination in the sight of God."

Daniel.

Daniel, with noble pride, scorns the proffered gifts. "Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy rewards to another. I will have none of them; but I will read yonder writing, and make known to thee the interpretation." But first Daniel orders to rebuke the blasphemous dainties of Belshazzar. He recalls the story of Nebuchadnezzar, his grandfather, and how God had humbled his stout-hearted pride. Then he breathes in, and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified though thou knewest all this; then was the part of the hand sent from Him; and this writing was written. And this is the writing that was written, Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharsin. This is the interpretation of the thing: "Mene; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it."

"Tekel; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting." "Peres; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

Belshazzar calls for the royal robe, and it is placed on Daniel. A chain of gold is cast about his neck, and he is proclaimed next to Belshazzar, third ruler in the kingdom. The royal banquet goes on. The hilarity increases; but, hark! the tramp, tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers' feet in the streets of Babylon. The armies of Cyrus have turned the waters of the Euphrates, and have come in by the river bed and the two leaved gates of Babylon.

There is a crashing sound at the gate. The guests look round for a place to flee. But it is too late. Tramp, tramp, tramp, up the palace stairs, with a crash and a rush, the Persian and Median soldiers come in. Swords flash in air for a moment. Belshazzar looks up, and sees the sword over his head. It falls. Belshazzar is a corpse. "That night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain." I call your attention to one word on the wall:

Everyone Weighed.

"Tekel; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting." "In whose balances was Belshazzar weighed? The balance of God. Not in the balances of his own estimation of himself; he would never have been found wanting there. Not in the balances of public opinion; the men of Babylon would have said, 'Belshazzar is the greatest of our statesmen, and the coming man.' Not in the balances of human philosophy. In the balances of God."

"Every man and woman here tonight is to be weighed in the same balances, the balances of God. How much do you suppose that you weigh in your own opinion of yourself? That is of no consequence, for many a man who thinks most of himself is of least account in the mind of God. I do not ask how much you weigh in the balances of public opinion. You may be a leading citizen and a chief magistrate, whom all delight to honor; but oftentimes that which is highly esteemed is abomination in the sight of God."

"How much do you think you weigh in the balances of God? There are some of us who set much store by our morality, our culture, our refinement; but if we knew how little we weighed in the balances of the eternal and all holy God, we should fall on our knees and cry, 'God be merciful to me a sinner.'"

"Is there any way in which we can tell how much we weigh in the balances of God? There is. God has given to us the weights wherewith He weighs us."

The Balances.

"Turn to Exodus xx, and you will get the first ten weights by which God weighs men—the well-known Ten Commandments. Let me read them."

"Thou shalt have no other gods before me.' What is a man's god? A man's god is the thing he thinks most of. If a man thinks more of money than anything else, money is his god; and many a citizen of Paducah worships Plutus, the god of wealth. Many a man is sacrificing conscience, sacrificing honor, sacrificing obedience to God, to gain money. You do things in business that you know are not according to the teachings of the Bible, things that you know are not pleasing to a holy God, because there is money in them. Gold is your god, and you are found wanting by the first of God's commandments. There are men who worship gold just as really as if they had a sovereign hung up in their bed chamber, and said their prayers to it."

"Many worship social position. How many are doing things in matters of dress and in matters of social life that are disapproved by conscience. But it is what society does and they think that if they do not do the same they will lose their position in society. You are putting society before God. Society is your god. You are weighed and found wanting by the first of God's laws."

"Major Whittle once went, in Washington, to call upon a man who had been prominent in public and church life. He was showing Major Whittle over his beautiful new house. They came to a large and beautiful room, and Major Whittle asked, 'What is this for?' The man was silent at first. 'What is this for?' asked Major Whittle again. The man hung his head and said, 'Well, Major, if you must know, this is a ball-room.' 'What! a ball-room. Do you mean to tell me that you have sunk so low that you have a ball-room in your house?' 'Well, major, I never though I would come to this; but my wife and daughter said we were in society now, and this was the thing in Washington, and that we must have it to keep our position in Washington society. Social position was their god; and that man paid for it dearly in the wreck and ruin of his home."

"Many a man worships whisky. How many a man is sacrificing his brain power, his business capacity, the respect of his fellow citizens, the reverence of his wife and children, in devotion to the cursed whisky. I saw many a hideous god when I was traveling in India, all sorts of beastly images which men bow down before and worship, but I know no god more beastly, no god more disgusting than this god of whisky, upon the altar of which men are offering as a sacrifice their children and their interests."

"How many a young man and young woman worships the god of pleasure? They are doing things for pleasure that their conscience disapproves of, things that hinder communion with God. They are sacrificing everything that they may have amusement and pleasure. Amusement is their god. Weighed and found wanting by the first weight of the ten commandments."

"I have no time to dwell upon the second commandment: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, or serve them, for I, the Lord thy God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate Me, and showing mercy unto

Reliable Laxative for Old People Given Free

Life is so arranged that there is a close resemblance between infancy and old age. By this is not meant the mental but the physical faculties. For example, the organ of digestion is the most difficult thing the child has to contend with, as it is that of the old person.

"When a person gets past middle life his power of digestion decreases, and continues to grow weaker, and for that reason so many old people are habitually constipated. They try everything recommended from hot water to strong cathartics without avail. Now, if there is any one thing a person of advanced years should not take it is a cathartic. The bowels cannot stand it. What is required is a mild, gentle, non-gripping liquid laxative."

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 641 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

You have it exactly as required in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which stands today, after a generation, as the ideal remedy for old people, women, children and all others who require a mild, natural remedy. We could give the names of thousands of old people who use nothing else but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them Mr. A. A. Lewis of Bentonville, Ark., and Mr. Enos Gilpin of Danville, Ill.

They first sent to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle, which every reader is invited to do, and then, having tested it and found it satisfactory, they bought it of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Their words of public praise should prompt the present reader to at least send for a sample bottle. It costs nothing. Results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

One True Medicinal Whiskey

Beware of So-called
Ones—Imitations

Unscrupulous dealers, mindful only of their profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low grade mixtures, which they tell you are "as good as" Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Some go so far as to try to make you believe it is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. These cheap concoctions are foisted on the people with the intent to deceive.

When a remedy has been before the public for more than half a century, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. They may imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. Its palatability and its freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach. It has been used with remarkable results in the treatment of consumption, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, malaria, fevers, stomach troubles and all wasting and diseased conditions.

It is sold in sealed bottles only. The Old Chemist's Head is on the label, and over the cork is an engraved seal. Be certain the seal is unbroken. Sold by druggists, grocers, dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle.

Daily Thought.

The rays of happiness, like those of light, are colorless when unbroken.—Longfellow.

Remember what the little cricket told us three months ago?

The United Press rather put it over the associated in the interview with the king's mistress yesterday.

Hopkinsville has a young man of mysterious psychic powers; but he didn't have to dream for us that those night rider trials would be continued.

Manuel and Gaby might book some "good time" in vaudeville, if they would make arrangements while the subject is fresh in the public mind.

The unanimity of Bob Taylor's nomination, was like the unanimity with which the occupants of a sinking craft will choose the only log that comes floating within reach.

Dock Cook has been discovered in London. Probably after sizing up the quality of the English press, Dock thought he would be better concealed from publicity in London than in some out-of-the-way place, where American newspapers send their representatives and do not depend upon local correspondents. Wise old Dock.

STATESMAN BOB.

No matter what opinion one may hold regarding the issues in Tennessee this fall, he is bound to regard Bob Taylor as a statesman and a man of executive ability, even if his language is dry and to the point. Mounting the platform at the Patterson convention yesterday at Nashville, Bob began his declaration of principles by announcing: "I am the hill billy Democrat from the head of the creek. I have got a revolver in each bootleg and a bowie knife inside my shirt." In the further elucidation of his program, he announced that he heard "That fellow Hooper said 'if Bob Taylor is nominated I intend to break his old bald head.' Now, whether Bob Taylor or some other fellow is nominated, it will take more than Hooper to break Bob's old bald head." Now, there is a clear cut, succinct statement of the position of Bob Taylor upon the burning questions of the hour: an unequivocal declaration of political principle; a daring expression of an executive program, which no student of the situation can deny.

THE ISSUE IN TENNESSEE.

The Patterson Democrats, of Tennessee, have nominated Bob Taylor for governor and the fight is on. Efforts to make this organization appear to be Democracy and the opposing organization appear to be Republican, is missing the point. It is now, as it has been ever since the judicial election in August, a contest to see whether or not the present prohibitory liquor laws are to stand and be enforced, or whether they are to be repealed or modified. We are not discussing the issue; we are merely stating it, not for the benefit of the people of Tennessee, either, for they understand it; but for the better understanding of the issues by people outside the state, so they may know why the voters are divided as they are in the confusion of party lines, and what the outcome will mean.

Had there been no difference between the factions other than the personality of Patterson, after that the independent judiciary ticket was elected, and Patterson had withdrawn, there would have been nothing to prevent the Democrats uniting on a candidate, but the moment Patterson withdrew, papers, like the Memphis News-Scimitar and the Chattanooga Times, which had refused to support Patterson, declared for a straight Democratic ticket and advised that nothing be said on the liquor question in the state platform.

The majority of those independent votes came from the rural districts, where the prohibition sentiment is strong, and they saw or thought they saw, behind the proposal for a compromise candidate, a plan to elect a legislature, which would repeal the state wide law. They declined to even take a chance in a conference, and proceeded, not only to endorse Hooper for governor, but to reorganize the Democratic party. Representing as they did a majority of the actual voters of the party, who will deny them the right to? Moreover, the independent convention was presided over by the Tennessee member of the national Democratic committee.

The Patterson Democrats, who met at Nashville yesterday and nominated Bob Taylor for governor, also claim to be the real party, and the old committee, which was superceded at the independent Democratic convention, claims to represent the regular organization. There are now two state committees in Tennessee, claiming to represent the Democratic party, and supporting opposing candidates for governor; the national committee man sides with one, and the other proposes to select a new national committeeman. Meanwhile the question is raised, which shall be recognized in the selection of election officers. That is important; for under the regime of the Patterson Democracy, which held its convention at Nashville yesterday, the choice of election officers has frequently been the determining factor in the outcome of Tennessee state elections.

If we were to hazard an opinion, we should say the odds are heavily in favor of the coalition behind Hooper's candidacy. We believe it represents not only the Republican and prohibition element, but really a majority of the Democratic voters of the state.

The election is not far off, and we soon shall know whether "Fiddlin' Bob" still retains his hold on the people of his state.

REAL POTENTATE
VISITS STATESSULTAN OF SULU ONLY ONE OF
UNCLE SAM'S.Interviewed in Washington By the Newspaper Boys About His Life and Impressions.

PART OF OUR ESTABLISHMENT

Washington, Oct. 7.—Of the many quaint visitors, who come to Washington none has ever attracted more attention than the sultan of Sulu, Uncle Sam's only real potentate, who traveled around the world to call on "Governor" Taft and incidentally to raise some ready cash by disposing of a few of his jewels.

The sultan won many friends here before his hurried departure for the west, his visit having been cut short by the necessity of reaching San Francisco in time to board an army transport for Manila. The little chief of the Suluos received reporters freely and the following description of an interview is typical. As a reporter entered his hotel parlor the sultan was seated upon a couch with Col. Hugh Scott, who is conducting his tour. The royal feet swung three inches clear of the floor and the sultan's back was held as stiff as a ramrod with a little brown head above so erect that it really seemed to be perched upon his shoulders.

The years have driven the hair back from the sultan's forehead so that it fringes the top of his head in a semi-circle hedge, standing bolt upright, jolly black, bristling and rising to a most defiant point at the very top of his head. His forehead is high, his eyes deep set and small and he darts his glances about incessantly. Altogether, despite his profound dignity, this gives Uncle Sam's royal citizen somewhat the appearance of a startled parrot.

About the room were several little brown men all standing perfectly rigid. Three of them sat down after the reporter had commenced to speak to the sultan. The others never budge once.

The sultan bowed to the reporter and started, "Cluck, Cluck, Cluck." His words sounded like the tappings of a telegraph key.

"I have come to learn of the world for my people," he said. "I wish that they might be with me but I and my friends here will tell them of it. Also, slowly, the world will come to them. I want to see your cities with their palaces. They are very wonderful. New York is the most wonderful of all—greater than Paris or London.

"I want to tell them really of the nation of which they have become a part. They do not know the truth of it. I did not know before I came, because my interpreters out there would not tell the truth about it. I will tell my people how you raise your crops and how to become good farmers and make good homes. I will tell them of your soldiers that I have seen drill at the fort (Fort Meyer), and I know that they will want to be like Americans.

"Oh! I have seen so much since I started on this trip. In Genoa, in Paris and everywhere in Europe. I am good for everybody to know and to see everybody else, but we have not done that. What we have seen on our journey will help Sulu very much. Also I will be glad to tell them of how I met so many of your officials and how kind they were to me."

Here the official interview ended and the sultan and his party crowded in to an elevator to begin their day's sight-seeing. Upon the street just as he was to enter an automobile the sultan turned to the reporter catching his interpreter by the sleeve.

"Tell him," said the sultan, "that the whole world is a school to me and I can best tell him of his country by saying that I saw many rounds in the ladder of learning in Europe and fool that here I am at the top of the ladder if I could only learn all.

THE LAST SUPPER

age of 5 years. His talent became apparent and he afterwards attended the Boston Art Museum. At the age of 17 he went to Paris and until 22 he was a pupil of Jean Leon Gerome, the world's most famous French artist, who died two years ago. Mr. Leavitt studied at the Ecole Nationale and after he was 22 years old he painted his first picture, "In the Valley of the Shadow of Death."

In Paris he lived in the Latin quarter, where all artists and musicians reside. Here his knowledge of art was broadened as a result of mingling in the quarter. Paris is the art center of the world, but Mr. Leavitt says all countries are becoming more closely related. What America needs, he says, in speaking of art, is Americanizing. Most of our paintings are by foreign masters, but the time is coming when there will be an American Art. France acknowledges Americans more quickly than do Americans.

Impressions of Paris.
"Most Americans get the wrong impression of French people," he said, "because when they go there, they are shown into places other than the best. They do not get to meet the fine French families."

Mr. Leavitt is an interesting conversationalist and a scholar. He speaks several languages fluently and is perfectly at home in France. He is now painting another large canvas of about the same size of his "Last Supper," and has put six months' work on it. He intends to complete it by February. The name of his latest work is "The Holy Night, or the Birth of Christ." In painting it he has utilized a suggestion from Van Dyke's "Wise Men." A few hours during the day, Mr. Leavitt spends in pencil sketching. He also works in pen and ink and has a large collection of his originals with him. The picture here will be on exhibition from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. for two weeks. After leaving Paducah Mr. Leavitt will not accompany his painting, but will return to work.

Never Wears a Hat.

A hat he considers more troublesome than an umbrella, so the artist never wears one, winter or summer. Mr. Leavitt quit wearing a hat because he could never remember where he left it. Another oddity is Mr. Leavitt's dress is that it never gets cold enough for him to wear an overcoat. He says he never has a cold. However, he carries an umbrella in the rain and snow.

Next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock he will lecture at the Three Links building on the subject of "Lights and Shades of the Latin Quarter." This will be an interesting talk. He has arranged to talk to the pupils of the High school next week.

News of Theatres

High class vaudeville is what the Kentucky theater has for the latter part of this week. The good bill began last night and a packed house was delighted with the four acts and the two good reels of motion pictures. All of the acts are headliners. Alice Tiffen, Irish comedienne, has a bunch of new jokes and good ones and her character singing is more than the ordinary.

If you can't laugh at Pearl and Pearl, comedy top notchers and burlesquers, you are not there, Irish Pearl and Dutch Pearl are they and they are pearls, too. Just the latest line of talk is what they are giving, with a few good songs.

Brietow and Werner are laugh makers also. Brietow, in the role of a rube, is a comedy in himself, and when it comes to balancing feats he apparently defies the law of gravitation. If he succeeds in his trick is as fine, and if he doesn't it's pretty good, anyway. Miel Werner has a sweet voice and some new song hits.

The act of the Kanazawa Japs cannot be compared with any act ever before seen in vaudeville here. One of them performing some breath-taking feats on a black wire and ends up by climbing a rope stretched from the gallery to the stage. Climbing with his toes to the top directly over the audience, he makes a backward slide at an angle of 45 degrees to the starting point.

The second Jap has a brand new juggling and balancing feat that is good.

PORTUGAL STORY REACHING LIGHT

Pendaye says that arrivals there from Portugal bring details of the revolution which show that when the revolt began the soldiers organized and distributed arms among the civilians. The soldiers took possession of the broad Liberty avenue, leading from the Central square to King Edward VII park. Headquarters were established in the public square at the upper end of the avenue known as the "Rotunda." Cannon were mounted and trained along the avenue.

General Fight Tuesday.
At 5 o'clock Tuesday morning the first artillery part of the revolutionary army opened a general action, firing four shells down the avenue. These exploded near the railway station. The loyal Fourth regiment of infantry, which was stationed at the entrance to the city, answered the revolutionists with Gatling guns, sending a hail of shot in the direction of the "Rotunda."

At 10 o'clock the fighting became general. The squadron in the harbor and the regiments participating in the plot joined forces. With wild cheers the revolutionists ran up the red flag. The revolution was accomplished. A naval officer who tried to remonstrate with the marines was summarily executed.

U. S. Will Act Slowly.
Washington, Oct. 7.—A cablegram received at the state department from Minister Gage, the first official word from Lisbon, repeats the press reports of fighting at the capital, the flying of the red and green emblem over the fort and most of the public buildings, and the "reported" inauguration of the republic.

The dispatch was dated at 9 a. m. yesterday. It said:

"Fighting has been going on all night in the city and in front of the legation. Many royalist soldiers have surrendered. Some of the forts and most public buildings are flying the flag of the republic. It has been reported to me that the king of Portugal is aboard the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo and also that a proclamation has been issued declaring the inauguration of the republic."

Part, at least, of the minister's message appears to be based on newspaper reports and the rest already has been told in the press dispatches. No message has been received here from Provincial President Braga announcing the proclamation of the new government, and it is not at all an invariable rule to send such a notice to powers not vitally interested.

The United States government will proceed slowly in recognizing the new government. The proclamation of a republic in the place of the old monarchistic government is one thing and the actual establishment of a regular government fitted for recognition in the comity of nations, with all the guarantees and other things that figure in the essentials of a new power, is quite another matter.

Germany Concerned.

Berlin, Oct. 7.—The fate of the Portuguese colonies is a matter of serious concern among diplomats here owing to the fact that when Portugal was in great political difficulties in 1897 and 1898 the German and British governments discussed the eventuality of Portugal being unable to keep a secure hold on her colonies.

It was the plan of Cecil Rhodes that the Portuguese colonies should be divided between Great Britain and Germany. Rhodes talked on the subject with Emperor William, and shortly afterward the text of a so-called secret convention was published. This provided that Great Britain should take over the East African colonies of Portugal, in the event that circumstances should arise rendering Portugal unable to longer securely govern them.

At the time both London and Berlin issued official denials of the existence of such a treaty, but those well informed know that such an arrangement was considered, and they believe that the matter may be reopened if disorders in Portugal are prolonged.

Planned Revolt in Spain.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Dispatches from San Sebastian, Spain, say that the Spanish government has been aware for some time that the Spanish Republicans were plotting with the Portuguese Republicans for a simultaneous outbreak in both countries.

October 13, the anniversary of Ferrera's execution, was the date tentatively chosen for the combined effort. But the Spanish plotters, after canvassing the situation thoroughly, realized that they had little chance of success. The officers of the army are said to have resulted in failure, while Gen. Weyler plainly intimated that any attempt at revolution would be mercilessly put down.

Nevertheless, the large body of Spanish opinion is convinced that the success of the Republicans in Portugal means a similar outbreak in Spain, with the probability of a counter-revolutionary movement by the Carlists in the north.

Fought 40 Hours.

London, Oct. 7.—Sir F. H. Villiers, British minister at Lisbon, telegraphed the foreign office early today that the Republican revolution apparently had been accomplished and there seemed to be no reason to fear further violence.

The minister states the whereabouts of King Manuel is unknown to him but is assured that the monarch is safe. He is not, however, the minister adds, on a British ship. A special dispatch from Lisbon says that the fighting in that city lasted forty hours, both parties showing extraordinary courage. There were many casualties before the monarchists finally joined the winning side.

The correspondent says the enthusiasm of the people was unbounded. The citizens are fraternizing with the troops. Notwithstanding there is no organized police force, the population is orderly.

Queen Hid Wealth in England.

Colonge, Oct. 7.—Queen Mother Amelle of Portugal, according to banking information here, has transferred large sums of money abroad in anticipation of the revolution. The transfers were largely to England, but some to Continental capitals. It appears here that the Portuguese royalty still hopes to make headway against the republic.

Offers Dowager Protection.

Turin, Italy, Oct. 7.—Princess Clothilde has offered her sister, the Dowager Queen Pia of Portugal, grandmother of King Manuel, the custody of her castle at Moncalieri, near Turin, where in October will be celebrated the marriage of Victor Napoleon, the eldest son of the Prince and Princess Clementine, of Belgium.

The members will meet at the Palmer House at 5:30 o'clock, when a dinner will be served and aside from the election of officers other business of interest to the advancement will be taken up. Secretary Saunders Fowler mailed out several hundred of the letters to members today, and it is expected every member will be present.

TAFT IS INDORSED.

Massachusetts Republicans Name State Ticket.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The Massachusetts Republicans in state convention in Tremont Temple gave unqualified indorsement to the administration of President Taft, commended the Payne tariff and indorsed what it termed the Republican policy of conservation of national resources.

Robert Luce, of Somerville, who was permanent chairman of the convention, was heartily cheered when in his speech he made a complimentary allusion to former President Roosevelt. There was a slight ripple as the speaker turned the thought of the convention to "another man of different mould," when a voice was heard to say: "He's no good."

Ignoring the interruption Mr. Luce proceeded with his address, saying: "There are narrow-minded mortals, who cannot at the same time admire two men of different types."

The convention rose to its feet with cheers.

Gov. Eben S. Draper and the remainder of the present state officers were renominated by acclamation, with the exception of Attorney General Dana Malone, who did not desire re-election.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by W. J. Gilbert.

KENTUCKY SYNOD AT DANVILLE

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET OCTOBER 11.

First Session of Body Since General Assembly Met This Year.

PROMINENT PEOPLE THERE.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 7.—The Presbyterian Synod of Kentucky will hold its one hundred and eighth annual meeting in the First Presbyterian church, Danville, Ky., on Tuesday, October 11, at 7:30 p. m. This will be the sixteenth time the Synod has met in Danville.

The Synod was organized at Lexington, October 14, 1802. The first and second meetings held in Danville were 1804 and 1805, with Rev. Messrs. Samuel Shannon and James Blythe as moderators. Other distinguished ministers on other occasions presided as moderators. Among them Rev. Thomas Cleland in 1819, Jeremiah Chamberlain, the first president of Center College, in 1826, President Lewis W. Green in 1840, Robert J. Breckinridge in 1849, John L. McKee in 1865. The last meeting of the Synod in Danville was in 1906, with Rev. I. S. McElroy, D. D., as moderator.

The opening sermon of the approaching meeting will be preached by Rev. W. H. Miley, D. D., pastor of the Portland Avenue church, Louisville. Dr. Miley is a native Virginian, an alumnus of Washington and Lee University, and a graduate of Union. Theological Seminary of Virginia. He has long been prominently connected with the Synod, both as pastor and leader of its home mission work.

The old historic first church, in which the Synod will meet, was one of three churches organized by Rev. David Rice, the pioneer preacher statesman of Kentucky in 1783. The two other churches were Harrodsburg and Cane Run. The present church building was erected during the ministry of Rev. David Nelson in 1828, and was planned on a large scale. With its long side galleries, it easily seated 1,000 people.

Dr. L. H. Blanton writes: "Some of the most eminent men of the

My nose is a natural color and does not get sore."

Being flesh-colored, poslam may be retained upon the face in the daytime without attracting notice. For a free sample write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

Church have served this old church as pastor. Among them, the brothers Samuel K. and David Nelson in succession. Dr. David Nelson was a native of East Tennessee, educated at Washington college, under the presidency of Dr. Samuel Doak. On leaving college he came to Danville to study medicine under Dr. Ephraim McDowell. Infidel sentiments were rife in Danville at this time, and young Nelson became an avowed infidel. But he could not banish from his mind and conscience the influence of his godly home training and religious education under Doak, and after a few years of reckless folly, he became convinced of the falsehood and danger of infidelity, became a pronounced Christian and entered at once upon the preparation for the ministry. Dr. Nelson became famous in his day as the author of a book which had and still has wide ready. "The Cause and Cure of Infidelity." He was author of several hymns, among them, the popular hymn, "My Days are Gliding Swiftly By." Dr. Frederick A. Ross says, "Nelson was the most fascinating preacher I ever heard," and the writer remembers hearing Robert J. Breckinridge make a similar remark.

"Dr. John C. Young, president of Center college, was for many years minister to this church, as was Dr. Lewis W. Green for a time. These two men were the most learned, accomplished, and eloquent of their generation.

"Other pastors, as I recall them, were Rev. W. M. Scott, afterwards a professor in the Princeton Theological Seminary, Dr. John L. Yanties, Dr. John Hunter and W. J. McKnight.

"Following the division of the Synod in 1866 Rev. W. F. Junkin, D. D., was installed pastor and continued such until 1876. After an interval of about a year Rev. E. M. Green then serving the church in Washington, D. C., was called to the pastorate, and for 33 years he has continued the honored and beloved pastor of the church, and his bow still abides in strength. A third of a century is a long period for one man to serve a people in this sacred office and has been exceeded by only three other ministers, namely: Rev. Dr. Thos. Cleland, of New Providence, Dr. Henry M. Scudder, of Carlisle and Elizaville, and Rev. Dr. G. H. Rout, of Versailles.

"It is hoped that both ministers and sessions will heed the earnest injunction of the Synod, urging a more faithful attendance on its meetings. The good people of Danville of all denominations unite with the pastor and members of the old First church in a cordial welcome to all who will come to this meeting of the Synod."

JACOBY TALKS

ON HOW TO DO PERSONAL WORK FOR CHURCH.

Dr. Torrey Speaks About Those Who Can Pray So As to Get Answer.

The Rev. W. S. Jacoby gave another instructive talk to his class of personal workers at the Auditorium this morning. He used for his subject, "How to Deal With Those Who Are Difficult to Approach at the Hour of Confession." The Rev. Mr. Jacoby showed how to move one who is about ready to confess his faith and willing to become a Christian, but not when he is called upon. Part of his lecture was along the line of yesterday's morning talk. Preceding Mr. Jacoby's lecture was a sermon by Mr. Torrey on the subject of "Who Can Pray. So As to Get What They Ask." Dancing and card playing were given a hard jolt by Dr. Torrey on the subject of "Who Can Pray. So As to Get What They Ask." Dancing and card playing were given a hard jolt by Dr. Torrey. A good sized audience heard the sermon.

Rubbing out the Hairs by Thousands

Every time you wash your head—
Every time you brush your hair—
Every time you comb it—
Out they come—Roots and all.

Great Scott! I'll soon be bald if this keeps up.

And no matter how much hair you may have NOW you dare not let this continue. It means baldness in the end. It may be a year—it may be ten years—but baldness is sure unless you stop this falling hair.

And you must do it now. After the hair is all gone it is too late. You cannot make the hair grow where the roots have died.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

Are you going to wait? Are you going to rub on some hair tonic with a fancy name? Or are you going to use a time-proven treatment? A treatment that is backed up by the unrivaled experience of the specialists at the Woodbury Institute?

Some people still think that a visit to the Institute is necessary. DON'T MAKE THIS MISTAKE. You can now use this famous treatment right in your own home. You can apply it just the same as it was applied for years for those people who attended the Institute for treatment.

WOODBURY'S COMBINATION

Hair and Scalp Treatment

is the only treatment made from the formula of the great dermatologist. It consists of three preparations. Woodbury's Hair Scalp Cleaner, the best shampoo; absolutely antiseptic and germicide and dandruff cure. In cases of dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp or other scalp disorders which cause baldness as this preparation is a vitally important part of the treatment.

Ask your doctor or your Druggist about these preparations. They know of the vast experience at the Woodbury Institute which gave this wonderful treatment to the public.

Special large headed galvanized nails avoid the necessity of unsightly tin caps, which quickly rust and cause leaks. J-M REGAL ROOFING, when properly applied, will outwear any other roofing of its class, and it gives the best roof at the lowest cost. J-M REGAL ROOFING is the outcome of more than 50 years' experience in manufacturing roofing materials. It represents the result of a half century of experience and a constant endeavor to produce a really high grade roofing at a low grade price. While not the lowest in cost, it contains more real value than any other manufacturer can produce for the price.

The base of J-M Regal Roofing is genuine J-M TRINIDAD LAKE ASPHALT—the most durable water-proofing material known. As Trinidad Lake Asphalt has been used for 30 years for street paving, it is well adapted for roofing, where the conditions are far less severe. ## SERMON OF man's necessity, and does not give him in pay full equivalent for his labor, is a thief. Every laboring man who does not give to his employer, in good, honest work, a fair equivalent for the wages paid to him, is a thief. The gambler who gambles and wins is a thief. Every time you bet on cards, on a horse race, on a boat race, every time you invest in pools or in a lottery, whether it be a public lottery or a church lottery, and win, you are a thief. The man who gambles and wins is a thief; the man who gambles and loses is a fool. So every gambler is either a thief or a fool.

False Witness.

"The Ninth Commandment—'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.'—I know you do not like what I am saying, but that does not alter it; and you will not escape God by trying to forget what I say. But if you do not pay attention to my words, as far as they are true, they will rise up against you in the day of judgment. 'How much do you weigh, weighed by that commandment?' 'Well, you say, 'I am all right by that, because I was never in court.' Does it say anything about court? Every time you tell anything about another that is derogatory to them, and it is not true, you have broken this law of God. You hear a story, and do not take pains to find out whether it is true or not. Perhaps you add a bit to it, and go on and tell it, and it is not true. You have broken the law of God. You say, 'I thought it was true.' It is not what you think; it is the fact. When you hear anything against another do not believe it until it is proven absolutely true; and ever what it is keep it to yourself unless duty clearly demands the telling of it, which is very seldom. 'Some of you say, 'Did you hear that awful story about Mrs. —?' 'I was awfully sorry?' You lie. You were glad to hear it, or you would have kept it to yourself. The gossip, the slanderer, is viler than the vilest thief that walks your streets. The thief only steals money; the slanderer steals what money can not buy—reputation. 'The Tenth Commandment—'Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's'—God's law covers not only the covert act, but the covert thought of the heart as well. Many of you would not steal your neighbor's horse, but you wish it was yours. You would not run off with your neighbor's wife, but you wish she was yours. You would not rob your neighbor of his money, but you wish it was your money. You have broken the law of God.

The Golden Rule.

"How much do you weigh, weighed by the law of God? 'There are two other weights heavier than these, Matthew vii. 12: 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.' The so-called Golden Rule. How many talk about it, and how few keep it.

"One day I was talking to a sea-captain. I asked him, 'Captain, why are you not a Christian?' 'The Golden Rule is a good enough religion for me,' he replied. 'Do you keep it?' He dropped his head. He talked about it, but he did not keep it. Talking about it will not save you. Do you do it? Mind it does not merely put it negatively. 'Do not do to others whatsoever you would not that they should do to you.' That is Confucianism. The Christian rule is positive. 'Do these things to them.' Sell goods to other people just the way you want other people to sell goods to you. Talk about other people behind their backs just as you want them to talk about you behind your back. Do you do it? Always? Then you are weighed and found wanting.

"The heaviest weight of all is in Matthew xxii. 37, 38: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment.' How much do you weigh by that law? Put God first in everything—in business, in politics, in social life, in study, in everything. Do you do it? Have you always done it? No, you say, I have not. Then you are weighed and found wanting, not only by breaking a law of God, but this is the first and great commandment; you have broken the first and greatest of God's laws.

The Great Commandment.

"A minister asked me to talk with a young man who wanted to go into the ministry. He was a splendid-looking fellow. When he came to me, I said, 'You want to go into the ministry? Are you a Christian?' 'Why, of course I am. I was brought up a Christian, and I am not going back on the training of my parents. Have you been born again?' 'What?' 'Jesus says, 'Except a man be born again, he can not see the kingdom of God.' 'Well, he said, 'I have never heard of that before.' 'Did you know that you had committed the greatest sin a man can commit?' 'No, I never did.' 'What do you think it is?' 'Murder.' 'You are greatly mistaken. Let us see what God says.' I turned to Matthew xlii. 37, 38, and read: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment.' 'Which commandment is it?' I asked. 'The first and greatest.' 'Have you kept it?' 'Have you loved God with all your heart, and all your soul, and all your mind? Have you put God first in everything—in business, pleasure, in social life, in politics?' 'No, sir, I have not.' 'What have you done then?' 'I have broken this commandment.' 'Which commandment is it?' 'The first and greatest.' 'What have you done then?' 'I have broken the first and greatest of God's commandments. I have committed the greatest sin a man can commit. But I never saw it before.'

Christ in the Balance.

"How much do we weigh, every one of us, including the preacher? Every one of us is weighed and found wanting. What shall we do then? This is where the Gospel comes in. I have preached up to this point nothing but law. God has weighed the whole world in the balance and found it wanting and in Christ. He provided salvation for a wanting world. 'God sent His Son, who kept the law, and then died for you and me who have broken it; and all you and I have to do is to take Christ into the balances with us. Christ can weigh up all the weights. When we take Christ into the balance with us, then we are weighed and found not wanting.

"Will you take Jesus Christ into the balances with you tonight? Woe to the man who is weighed in the balances of God for the last time without having Jesus Christ with him. This may be the last opportunity for some; it may at all events be the last opportunity which you will ever take. The time will come when you will be weighed and found wanting; and you will look back and say, 'Oh, why did I not listen to the preacher?' You will remember this sermon and the text; and you will say, 'Oh, if I only had improved the opportunity.'

"Mr. Moody told a story I shall never forget. A man was set to watch a drawbridge. He had special orders not to open the draw until a special train passed. Boat after boat came up and urged him to open the bridge and let them through. 'No, I have my orders to wait until the special passes.' At last a friend came up and over-urged him, and he allowed himself to be persuaded. He threw the draw open. No sooner was the bridge well open and the vessels beginning to enter, than he heard the whistle of the special. He sprang to the lever, but he was too late. The train came on with lightning speed. He looked on as it dashed into the open chasm, he heard the shrieks of the injured and saw the corpses of the dead, and went mad. He never recovered his senses, but walked up and down the padded cell of the

Politics and Sheep.

Everybody will recall this story, says the Brooklyn Eagle:

A city young woman went out to teach a country school. The class in arithmetic was before her. She said:

"Now, children, if there are ten sheep on one side of a wall, and one sheep jumps over, how many sheep will be left?"

Then up piped the little tow-headed daughter of a farmer.

"No sheep, teacher; no sheep."

"Oh, oh," cried the city young woman, reproachfully, "you are not so stupid as that; think again. If there were ten sheep on one side of the wall, and one sheep jumped over, nine sheep would be left, don't you see that?"

New Gossard Corsets Now $3.50

Not sale goods but an entirely new regular line of These Celebrated Corsets

Model 350-360 is designed for figures of rather full proportions, desirous of maintaining a tapering waist line and though the waist assumes a decidedly slender appearance the size of the hips is not enlarged as the length is sufficient to admirably control the hips and abdomen. The bust is medium low, sloping gradually under the arm insuring the comfort of the wearer.

Model 351-361 is for the figure requiring a good length below in back and medium over hip. Gives straight lines and has two inch soft extension in front. Is designed to conform to low bust tendency.

Without doubt the values offered in this new $3.50 Gossard surpass any other corset on the market at the same price. It is made in two distinct models, adaptable for the requirements of various types of figures. The Electrobone filling is the highest grade of boning used, and combines the wonderfully satisfactory features of pliability and strength, yet is light in weight. The fabrics include a fine, firm Batiste, and a medium Sterling or Everlast cloth.

The many excellent features of Gossard Corsets have ranked them foremost in corsetry, and the name Gossard represents the standard of style, comfort and durability. Ultra fashionable women demand the Gossard Corset, recognizing that only with it can the desired results in dress be attained. They support and suppress the fullness of the abdomen in a scientific and healthful manner and overcome all tendencies of the body to incorrect poise. The same careful attention by our expert corsetiers that is given fitting of these corsets receives the same careful attention by our expert corsetiers that is given to the higher priced goods.

This is the first announcement of the sale of these corsets. The stock, fresh from the factories, gives opportunity for every woman to learn of the excellence of the Gossard Corset.

The Sale Continues Throughout the Week

"If one sheep jumped over all the little tow-head explained apologetically: 'He knows all the best people in others would jump after. My father ally: "You know mathematics, town." "Why don't he associate raises sheep." Then seeing the puz-teacher, but, you see, I know with them, then?" "They know zied look on the teacher's face, the sheep."

YOU NEED A HEATING STOVE Right Now

Of course you want the best and it is generally conceded that COLES original HOT BLAST is the best stove made because it is guaranteed as follows;

- "1—A saying of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.
  - "2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with the same size fire pot.
  - "3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
  - "4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.
  - "5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
  - "6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.
  - "7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.
  - "8—That the Anti-Puffing Draft will prevent puffing.
- "All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and connected with a good flue.
- "(Signed) COLE MANUFACTURING CO., Not Inc."
(Makers of the Original Hot Blast Stove.)

This remarkable guarantee from the makers of this stove should be of interest to you if you contemplate buying a heating stove.

Years of use has proven that no heater—at twice the price—equals it for radiating heat, for holding fire, requiring so little attention, never giving trouble, cutting down your coal bill one-third to one-half.

Come in and examine Cole's Original Hot Blast and you will see at once it is the stove you want,
